@Cardiff_ECOS

A Welcome from the Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture.

Forward by Cardiff Council's Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Cllr Ramesh Patel.

As Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture I am incredibly proud that Cardiff has been awarded European Capital for Sport 2014. As well as further endorsing Cardiff as a major sports destination, the accolade recognises the passion and sporting spirit which unites communities and inspires people across the city.

Our already well-established grass roots sports programme which has been heralded as a best case example in Europe will continue in its development of sport at all levels. With the introduction of "The Cardiff Games", an Olympic and Paralympic legacy, all school children will be inspired and encouraged to participate in competitive sport with the aim that they become 'hooked on sport' and continue to engage in it for the rest of their lives.

Considerable investment in the sporting infrastructure has led to the development of state-of-the-art stadia including the Millennium Stadium, SWALEC Stadium, Cardiff International Sport Stadium and Cardiff City Stadium.

A lot of excellent facilities have also been built to attract visitors including the International Sports Village which is home to the International Pool and Cardiff International White Water (CIWW) which offers rafting, indoor surfing and an Olympic standard course for paddle sport enthusiasts.

These elements have helped to attract a worldwide audience of millions as the city has played host to major national and international events including London 2012 Olympic football matches, the Ashes, the Heineken Cup Final and the Extreme Sailing Series.

Cardiff continues to be open for business recently winning the bid to host the IAAF World Half Marathon Championships in 2016 and the city has also been chosen to be a host port for the Volvo Ocean Race in 2018 With events such as these along with Cardiff City Football Club now in the English Premier League all eyes are on Cardiff at an international level.

Here in Cardiff we are committed to providing sport as a social function as well as using it as a tool to improve the quality of life and wellbeing for our citizens

The year 2014 looks set to be a show-stopper for Cardiff with a huge number of national and international events such as Welsh Athletics Championships and Commonwealth Games Qualifiers, Six Nations Rugby, the Heineken and Amlin Cup Finals, , Power Boat Championships and the UEFA Supercup Final to name a few.

Local communities will also be involved in staging events and new schemes to boost sports participation and give everyone a chance to participate in this momentous year.

With Cardiff's impressive and rich sporting heritage we should be both proud of the recognition and excited by what the future holds for sporting opportunities here in the capital city of Wales.

I would like to thank the Lord Mayor of Cardiff for his support during this process and for collecting the prestigious flag from Brussels on behalf of the people of Cardiff, formally pronouncing the city as European Capital for Sport 2014.

VISITORS to the city centre before Christmas were treated to a glimpse of Doctor Who's Tardis when it landed at Cardiff Castle, as part of the 50th anniversary celebrations for the BBC series. The Time Lord's time machine travelled around Wales before arriving in the capital, where the show is produced, finding a spot on the castle bastion. Pupils from Gladstone Primary School were also involved in the 50th anniversary celebrations when they were invited to a special Buckingham Palace reception with Doctors past and present. Sniffer dogs hit Cardiff streets

TRADING Standards officers in Cardiff have seized £4,000 worth of illegal products in a clampdown on the sale of counterfeit and contraband cigarettes in the city.

As part of an ongoing campaign, officers recently raided shops using sniffer dogs trained to find hidden tobacco and money. They discovered significant amounts of cigarettes in hidden panels, cut out compartments in cavity walls and hidden drawers under shop counters.

The illegal products, with an estimated value of £4,000, were set to be sold to Cardiff's residents but have been confiscated and will be destroyed. The Council will now consider whether it is appropriate to prosecute those involved.

Smoking legal cigarettes and tobacco is proven to damage human health, but as illegal products are not regulated, nicotine and tar levels aren't monitored. In previous testing of the products, ingredients such as sawdust and rat droppings have been discovered.

Anyone smoking these products will be unaware of these ingredients and the additional risks to human health are also unknown.

Cabinet Member for Community & Neighbourhood Regeneration and Social Justice, Councillor Lynda Thorne, said: "These cigarettes are often sold at half the cost of the genuine products and it needs to be realised that the effects of smoking these cigarettes on a person's health are unknown.

"Our intelligence shows that the majority of this illegal trade is run by organised crime, as the benefits of selling these products seem to be significant. The message to shop owners is to stop selling these products as our operations to disrupt this illegal trade will continue.

"Wherever you try to hide these cigarettes, the sniffer dogs will always find them and we will confiscate and prosecute."

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at the jobs carried out by Council employees. This month Senior Library Assistant, Toby Philpott, talks to the Capital Times.

Photograph by Peter Evans

THE force is very much with Cardiff Central Library, thanks to Senior Library Assistant Toby Philpott.

Over the past few weeks, Toby and the library have been making headlines thanks to Toby's previous life as Star Wars crime lord Jabba the Hutt. A number of media outlets both locally and nationally have run stories about Toby's time working on Return of the Jedi.

Before Toby joined the library, his most famous roles was as a puppeteer for one of Hollywood's best known baddies, operating Jabba's left arm and tongue in the film.

Over the last few weeks Toby has been interviewed by a number of national newspapers, radio stations and TV channels to talk about his unique experiences.

"It feels like I almost lead a double life sometimes. I can go shopping and no-one ever recognises me as Jabba. But the Star Wars films have a following like no other in history, so I do get a lot of contact from fans and get asked to speak at the odd convention," he said.

Toby's journey as a puppeteer began in the 1970s when he funded his travelling across America through street performances. Toby, whose father was a puppeteer, said: "I grew up in a circus family - my father was a puppeteer too - so when I ran out of money in Mexico, street performing as a juggler and clown seemed the logical choice. It wasn't until my father died several years later that I thought of following in his footsteps with the puppets."

If Star Wars wasn't enough, Toby has worked on a number of other famous films including 'Labyrinth' and 'Who Framed Roger Rabbit'.

With the introduction of computer-generated graphics, Toby soon looked for a new career and become a circus trainer in London, which led to running away with Cardiff-based NoFit State Circus (which had been formed by some of his students) before moving to Cardiff in the mid 1990s where he took on a temporary job at the library.

Toby added: "Many people ask me why I started working here and all I can say is why not? Finding Jabba working in a library is no more unusual than most of my life has been."

Help for empty home owners

CARDIFF Council has teamed up with the Vale of Glamorgan Council to help owners of empty properties in the area bring them back into use.

As part of the Welsh Government's Houses into Homes scheme, owners of empty properties, or those thinking of buying an empty property, in the area can apply for interest-free loans to pay for any renovation work that may be needed to return them to use as homes again.

Owners can apply for up to £25,000 per unit of accommodation and up to a maximum of £150,000 in total, to bring them back into use again by carrying out repairs or improvements that will enable them to sell or let a property. Loans are not available for people wanting to renovate the property and live in it as their principal home.

There are over 1,200 private homes in Cardiff and 900 in the Vale that have been vacant for more than six months. The scheme has already helped a number of empty home owners in the city return their property to use.

Gilly Clench was awarded £50,000 to help with the costs of completely refurbishing two self-contained flats on Taff's Mead Embankment in Riverside. Following the development, the flats have been brought back into use and are now fully occupied.

Gilly said: "This is a real success story as they were such rundown flats. They were difficult to let and now they are simply gorgeous. The loan gave me the money I needed at the right time to be able to convert them back to their former glory."

To apply for a loan, the property must have been empty for a minimum of six months and the loan must be repaid within two or three years depending on whether the property is sold or let. Funding is available until mid March 2014.

For further information, owners of properties in Cardiff who are interested in applying for a loan should contact empty homes caseworker Derene Hughes on 029 2087 1724 while the Vale of Glamorgan Council's empty property officer Georgina Wayman can be contacted on 01446 709 838.

Litter champion leads by example

MANY people volunteer and play a vital part in their communities but none perhaps with the zeal of the remarkable Anthony Wilby (pictured).

After suffering with cancer in 2011, one of the 30-year-old Butetown resident's first thoughts was what he could give back for all the treatment and attention he received during his illness.

Anthony said: "I read an article in the paper about the Cardiff Rivers Group and decided to join them. I also met Chris Partridge from Keep Wales Tidy (KWT) who told me about their Friday morning group. They litter-pick all over the city and I've been doing it ever since."

Anthony was unemployed as he recovered from his illness but found great benefits from volunteering.

"I would recommend it to anyone," he said. "If you're not working, it shows employers you're not sitting around but willing to give anything a go and it certainly worked for me. If it wasn't for the volunteering, I don't think I'd be in work in a local supermarket now."

If you want to make a difference in your community and benefit from volunteering, please visit www.keepwalestidy.org or call 029 2025 6767.

A Very Happy New Year to all our readers

I hope you enjoyed a peaceful and restful Christmas and had the opportunity to spend time with friends and family.

I am looking forward to 2014 when Cardiff is the European Capital of Sport. With a packed calendar of world-class sporting events ahead including international cricket, The Heineken Cup Final and the UEFA Super Cup Final, I'm delighted that this prestigious honour will allow us to further showcase our city as a leading sporting destination.

The New Year begins very much as 2013 ended, with our focus firmly on the tough financial challenges and very difficult decisions that will need to be made over the next few weeks as we set the budget for 2014/15.

We have already brought forward some early options for proposed changes to the way we may deliver services which we are consulting on at the moment. (See page 5).

The full budget proposals will be made public shortly and you will have an opportunity to have a say on those proposals in a city-wide consultation ahead of the setting of the budget at the Full Council meeting in February.

Despite the significant cuts that will need to be made, we have highlighted our three key priorities for the city - protecting the vulnerable, driving forward the economy to create jobs and opportunities and prioritising schools. On page 7, Cabinet Member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Councillor Julia Magill, outlines our commitment to education and our aspiration to raise standards and levels of attainment.

To that end, during this academic year we have already seen the transfer of two schools – Ysgol Treganna and St Teilo's High School - to brand new, 21st Century facilities and this month, a consultation is being held on locations for a brand new building for Eastern High School which will see huge investment in education in this part of the city, delivering a state-of-the-art learning environment for young people.

To conclude, it was with much sadness last month that we learned of the death of one of the world's most inspirational leaders, former South African president, Nelson Mandela.

Mr Mandela was a great man who changed the world for the better, touching so many people's lives. Cardiff was honoured to bestow the Freedom of the City on him and many of us will still remember that momentous occasion at Cardiff Castle when he accepted the award during the European Union Summit in 1998.

I was honoured to lead tributes from Cardiff to Mr Mandela by writing to his family and signing the book of condolence that we opened at City Hall.

The world has lost a visionary leader but there is no doubt his legacy will live on.

Contract signed to produce jobs, investment and green energy

A contract with Viridor has been signed by Prosiect Gwyrdd to create green energy from remaining rubbish after residents and councils in five local authority areas have recycled as much as possible.

The partnership will deliver an average of 172,000 tonnes of rubbish each year to Viridor's facility at Trident Park, Cardiff Bay – generating enough electricity to power 50,000 homes.

The contract will save the councils £11m in the first year of operations and £500m over the lifetime of the contract compared to current arrangements. The contract will begin on April 1, 2016.

The facility is a £223m investment by Viridor producing jobs and investment in Wales. From the start of the building programme , Viridor has spent £17.4m with 61 different Welsh companies on materials, plant hire and sub-contractors and with the construction planned for another year, this investment will only increase.

Local jobs have been created by the project and statistics show that 219 operatives worked on site in August, increasing to 419 operatives during November. Some 40 full time jobs will be created when the plant is operational as well as apprenticeship and training opportunities. For more information visit - www.prosiectgwyrdd.co.uk

News in brief

Kickstart the New Year with MEND

A free club for families to learn together how to eat more healthily will take place at various locations around the city this month (January).

MEND (Mind, Exercise, Nutrition… Do It!) is a free 10-week programme that helps families that believe their child or children are above a healthy weight to get fit and healthy by learning how to eat more healthily, read food labels and make their weekly shop healthier and easier. For more details, contact Ali Gunn on 029 2090 7699, email Nutrition.Skillsforlife.cav@wales.nhs.uk or visit the MEND website www.mendcentral.org

Consultation on potential sites for new build school

A series of drop-in sessions which are part of a public consultation on two potential sites for a new build Eastern High are currently being held.

At its October meeting, the Cabinet agreed to consult on building a state-of-the-art 11-16 school in conjunction with the construction of post-16 facilities on either the Cardiff and Vale College site located at Trowbridge Road, Rumney or the site of the former Llanrumney High School, Ball Road, Llanrumney.

The new school would replace the existing facilities for Eastern High, currently located on the site formerly known as Rumney High School.

Drop-in sessions have been arranged where the proposal will be explained and interested parties can air their opinions and have their views recorded as part of the consultation process.

Drop-in Session Dates:

13 January 2014, 5-7pm
Rumney Library
15 January 2014, 5-7pm
Eastern Leisure Centre
17 January 2014, 11am -1pm
Llanrumney Library
18 January 2014, 10am -1pm,
Eastern Leisure Centre

The consultation period lasts until January 22.

The 'Diff Consultants City Showcase exhibition

DID you know that Cardiff City won the FA Cup in 1927, that Penylan had its own cinema called the 'Globe' from 1914 to 1987, or that the New Theatre opened in 1906?

The 'Diff Consultants, The Cardiff Story Museum's first youth advisory group, have been exploring all these things for their City Showcase exhibition which opens this month and explores the history of leisure in the city.

The 'Diff Consultants are a group of 10 young people aged 11 to 19-years-old from different backgrounds and different parts of the city who applied to become a 'Diff Consultant back in March. Nine months down the line they have created their own exhibition exploring the history of sport, music, art and media in the city.

The exhibition has various objects such as letters from the Globe Cinema and seats from the New Theatre. It also features a short film which sees the 'Diffs interviewing people in the city to find out more about leisure in Cardiff. Two of the interviewees were Spillers manager Ashli Todd and Dave Haller MBE, head coach of City of Cardiff Swimming Club.

Members of the public are encouraged to write down their personal stories relating to leisure in the city and stick them to a unique map of Cardiff. If anyone has stories to tell please visit the exhibition and add your contribution.

The 'Diff Consultants exhibition will run until the end of February.

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity includes living things, and is an essential part of the natural environment which supports and enriches our lives. Each month ecologist Matthew Harris talks about the natural environment in Cardiff.

JANUARY/FEBRUARY

FOR much of our wildlife, the most important time of the year is the breeding season, but usually this doesn't start until spring. However, some species, such as the Common Frog, seek a head start and regularly spawn in January and February in Cardiff. Common toads tend to breed about a month later, as do our other amphibians, the newts.

Recent research by Neil Madden at the University of Salford looked into how newts find their way back to these ponds. Some animal species use anything from the Milky Way to the Earth's magnetic field to orientate themselves, but when Great Crested Newts in a laboratory are played recordings of native frog and toad breeding calls, they walk towards the toad calls but not those of the frog.

The suggestion is that Great Crested Newts hear the croaking toads and associate the sound with a good breeding site. Perhaps they respond to the toad calls because toads breed in March and April, at the same time as the newts, but not the frogs because they breed that much earlier. Juvenile newts, which have never heard frog or toad calls, do not head towards these sounds, suggesting that this ability is learned during their first year of breeding. More about wildlife next month.

Schools floral wheelbarrow competition now open

THE next generation of green-fingered youngsters with an interest in growing and green issues can begin planning and planting as the schools floral wheelbarrow competition for 2014 is now open.

Schools from across the city will soon be busy planting up their wheelbarrows in a colourful and imaginative way for the many thousands of visitors to the RHS Flower Show in Bute Park in April.

This year's competition will again tie in with Cardiff Children's Literature Festival, and the two events occur over the same weekend – April 11-13. The theme of this year's competition is 'Floral Fairytales'.

Space at the show is limited to 60 entries, so it is important for schools to submit their entry form as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. The last date for entries will be Friday, January 31. If your school does not have a form and would like to enter, please call 029 2068 4000 to request one or to just ask a question, or visit www.cardiff.gov.uk/bloom where you can see photographs of previous entries.

Any school that reuses their existing wheelbarrow will be given £15 National Garden Gift Vouchers to spend on materials and/or plants for their design. Prizes for the school wheelbarrows are awarded to the top three winners, as voted for by visitors to the show.

For more information on Cardiff Children's Literature Festival, visit www.cardiff childrens litfest.com

Telecare keeps those you care about safe

AS the winter period sets in, concerns turn to the elderly and vulnerable in the city.

Busy routines or bad weather often means there isn't enough time to visit those we care about every day. Telecare from Cardiff Council's Community Alarm Service gives peace of mind to carers offering a 24 hour, seven days a week, 365 days of the year service.

Telecare is short or long term assistance that allows a person to live confidently and independently in their own home. In the event of a problem or emergency, Telecare customers can summon help through a simple touch of a button via a pendant that can be worn around the neck, on the wrist or on a belt.

Touching the button automatically connects to the local contact centre. Depending on the level of service chosen, a relative or the emergency services will be contacted. Alternatively, the specially-trained mobile warden service can be sent to the home to provide assistance.

The mobile warden team is unique within Cardiff and wardens aim to be with a person within 20 minutes of the alert being raised. Additional vehicles are on standby in case of bad weather so there will always be someone in the vicinity.

The service costs from as little as £1.94 per week and it is free for those claiming Pension Credits. For more information, telephone 029 2087 2087 or email telecare@cardiff.gov.uk

City prepared for severe winter weather

CARDIFF Council has plans in place to ensure the city is kept moving during the winter period.

With approximately 5,500 tonnes of salt available, which is more than the Welsh Local Government Association recommendation that Councils should hold, Cardiff is well-equipped for severe weather. Resources are on stand-by 24 hours a day during the winter period to ensure that salting can be undertaken promptly once it is needed.

The Council uses a fleet of 12 vehicles to spread salt on the roads following prescribed routes and vehicles can also be fitted with ploughs to help with clearing snow from roads if needed. The pre-salting operation usually starts within one hour of the decision being taken to start salting and takes approximately four hours to complete.

Out of more than 600 miles of roads across Cardiff, a priority network of pre-salting routes have been identified following a consultation with transport providers, the police and emergency services and will be salted when freezing conditions are forecast. This network is a little under half of the total adopted highway within Cardiff with a list of roads that will be pre-salted available on the Council's website: www.cardiff.gov.uk/winterweather

Following a snow event, the Council's objective will be to restore its principal roads and remainder of the treated network, and also the priority footway areas in the city centre to an acceptable condition as soon as possible.

Cabinet Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier, said: "You can help the Council by helping any vulnerable neighbours you might know and by doing what you can to help your community should we experience heavy snow falls. The information we've issued gives all the advice you need, with the Snow Code providing step-by-step guidance on what you should do when clearing snow from pavements and other public areas."

As well as keeping our website and twitter feeds up to date with the latest service information during severe weather, the Council has also provided snow information and tips to help keep members of the public and their family safe during periods of bad weather. For more information including the Welsh Government's Snow Code, please visit www.cardiff.gov.uk/winterweather

Early consideration of some 2014/15 budget proposals

CARDIFF Council's Cabinet has agreed to consider some early 2014/15 budget proposals in a bid to meet a funding shortfall of £50m.

Due to a significant reduction in Welsh Government resources and increasing financial pressures, the Council is facing unprecedented financial challenges and as a result, the Cabinet has reflected on a number of savings proposals to start early engagement or consultation.

Last month, the Cabinet gave its approval for more detailed proposals, in consultation with key stakeholders, to be brought forward in advance of the budget setting process in February. The proposals included are the closure of County Hall Nursery, a redesign of the city's Household Waste Recycling Centres (HWRCs) which would involve consulting on a reduction in the number of HWRCs from four to two sites and a review of alternative service delivery models for the city analyst laboratory.

The considerations also include the development of a business case for Central Transport Services to explore income generation opportunities.

It has also been agreed that as result of the departure of the Chief Operating Officer that the post should be deleted and the Chief Executive review the senior management structure.

A number of proposals will be considered in the future including a review of community buildings including existing hubs, libraries, play centres, youth centres and day centres and a review of Cardiff Youth Service.

Council Leader, Heather Joyce, said: "As a Council we are committed to protecting our key services. That means looking to drive forward the city's economy by creating jobs and opportunities for businesses to thrive, improving standards of education, looking after the vulnerable, and protecting, where possible, frontline services.

"But while we have these ambitions for the city we must be realistic and face the tough choices in order to make the unprecedented savings that have to be made.

"My Cabinet has been working hard with the Directors to identify savings and some of these need to be brought forward for early consideration to ensure we can achieve what is needed for budgets to be balanced."

Dogs' home sensory garden sets tails wagging

CARDIFF Dog's Home has scooped an RSPCA Cymru Innovator Award for the development of its sensory garden, designed to give stray dogs a better quality of life while they wait to be re-homed.

The development was the culmination of months of hard work by a dedicated team of staff and volunteers from the Friends of Cardiff Dogs' Home, whose aim was to improve the welfare of the dogs at the home.

The outdoor area includes a sandpit, fountain and tunnel which allows the dogs to play, explore and sniff outside of the kennel environment and can even improve their chances of being re-homed as prospective new owners can meet them in a more natural setting.

RSPCA Cymru Chair Paul Baxter and National Director Steve Carter presented the trophy to the Council's Assistant Director for Environment, Tara King; Dogs' Home manager, Maria Bailie; group leader, Sarah Brown and kennel assistant, Rebecca Thomas.

Free eMagazines in Cardiff libraries

A new national eMagazine service for Wales was launched in Canton Library recently. The service called Zinio Publications has 270 different titles to choose from which are free to access for library members and can be downloaded to a laptop, PC/Mac, e-reader, tablet or smartphone. All that is needed to access the service is a library card.

Pellett Street footbridge to link City Centre and Bay

A brand new footbridge across Cardiff's busiest railway line will open later this year, providing improved disabled access and access for cyclists.

The existing Pellett Street footbridge is now closed while the construction of the new state-of-the-art bridge linking the city centre and Cardiff Bay takes place. Pedestrians and cyclists needing to access Tyndall Street should take an alternative route via Adam Street and Bute Terrace during this time. The construction of the 40m span bridge, featuring curved ramps and staircases on both approaches, is being funded by property developer JR Smart with the support of Cardiff Council and Welsh Government. It is hoped the new bridge will open in summer 2014.

First Cardiff Games events a success

THE first events in the inaugural Cardiff Games have proved a resounding success with competitions in netball, badminton, judo, basketball and cross country.

Early pace setters are Cardiff High School who currently stand at the top of the league table after winning the Key Stage 4 basketball competition and achieving consistently good results in the netball, badminton and judo competitions. There has also been a strong start by Ysgol Gyfun Gymraeg Glantaf, Mary Immaculate High School and Ysgol Gyfun Gymraeg Plasmawr.

The 2014 Cardiff Games is an Olympic legacy multi-sport competition for primary and secondary schools in Cardiff. Building on the existing success of individual school sport competitions, along with the addition of some new and exciting sports, the 2014 Cardiff Games seeks to inspire, motivate and encourage young sports people within Cardiff to participate in sport and take pride in representing their school.

Schools can enter sports competitions to compete for the inaugural accolade of becoming 2014 Cardiff Games Champions. A school will obtain points for simply entering teams in the designated sports competitions and receive additional points depending on their final standing in the individual competition.

The Cardiff Games is organised and managed by Sport.Cardiff, Cardiff Council's Sport Development team, in partnership with national governing bodies, to provide a full and varied pathway for schoolchildren between the ages of nine and 16. For more information, visit www.cardiff-games.com

Blues ticket boost for looked after children

CARDIFF Blues has donated tickets to looked after children in Cardiff, becoming the latest sporting organisation in the city to show their support for children in the care of the Council.

The Blues join Cardiff Devils, Glamorgan Cricket, the Football Association of Wales (FAW), Welsh Rugby Union (WRU) and Cardiff City Football Club who have already contributed tickets, giving looked after children the opportunity to be able to experience top-class sporting events.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Ramesh Patel, said: "We have reached out to leading sports clubs in the area for their support to enable these youngsters to enjoy and experience the excitement gained from watching live sports games in the city.

"Other organisations who would like to be involved are welcome to come forward and express their interest in this generous and positive initiative."

Cabinet Member for Social Care, Health and Wellbeing, Councillor Siobhan Corria, said: "It is hugely valuable that children learn and gain from memorable experiences which may not normally be available to them and the Council is pleased that as the corporate parents we have been able to forge these relationships to provide these kinds of opportunities."

Cardiff children visit Palace for Doctor Who celebrations

CHILDREN from a Cardiff primary school received the royal treatment at a recent Buckingham Palace reception to celebrate 50 years of Doctor Who.

Pupils and staff from Gladstone Primary School in Cathays were chosen to attend the event as the school had been used as a location to film the 50th anniversary episode of the hit BBC production, which aired in November.

A group of 11 pupils and three staff, including headteacher Sally Brereton, travelled to London for the reception with the Countess of Wessex, where they met Doctors past and present including Matt Smith, Peter Davison and Tom Baker.

Education a key priority

WITH performances of schools across Wales in the headlines recently and comparisons drawn with international education systems, Cabinet Member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Cllr Julia Magill, underlines Cardiff's commitment to improving educational standards, as one of the Council's three key priorities along with protecting vulnerable people and driving forward the city economy.

"Education is a high priority for this administration and we are committed to improving standards. We want to provide our young people with the best possible start in life and this is the reason why we have earmarked education as a priority.

The recent Pisa (Programme for International Student Assessment) results show that the UK is falling behind in international tests taken by 15-year-olds, failing to make the top 20 in maths, reading and science. Unfortunately, as part of the UK picture, Wales is below average in all subjects.

This is a situation we must do everything we can to put right. In Cardiff, we are working hard to improve standards, including focussing on effective teaching and learning - especially literacy and numeracy, attendance, and strengthening partnership working. Whilst we are making progress, the recent school banding exercise shows that there is still a long way to go before all Cardiff schools are where they need to be.

Nonetheless, it was very pleasing to see the numbers of GCSE pupils attaining five grades A* - C or equivalent rise this year by five per cent to 73 per cent. Our A level results were also favourable, with an overall pass rate of 98.3 per cent for grades A* - E - higher than the all-Wales and England averages. These results have had a positive impact on the achievement rates for Wales as a whole but clearly there is more work to be done.

Primary school performance is also important, and while standards across Cardiff as a whole have improved, the city still lags behind the all-Wales average. This is why raising standards in numeracy and literacy as well as improving attendance is so important and will remain at the heart of everything we do.

Whilst there has been a reduction in the number of young people not in education, training or employment here, there is still work to be done to further reduce this figure and improve entry to education, employment and training for 16-year-olds.

Education is vital in ensuring that children and young people have the opportunity to fulfil their potential and young adults and older learners can make choices about whether to go on to Higher, or Further Education, or into employment. Having a well-educated skilled workforce is essential to Cardiff's economic future - another reason why education is a key priority for us.

NEW TRAFFIC PROPOSALS FOR THE CITY AND COUNTY OF CARDIFF

Notice is hereby given that the County Council of the City and County of Cardiff in exercise of its powers under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 (as amended), Part 6 of the Traffic Management Act 2004 as amended and The Civil Enforcement of Parking Contraventions (City and County of Cardiff) Designation Order 2010, and of all other enabling powers intends to impose traffic restrictions on the lengths of roads referred to in the Schedule below. The nature of the restrictions and the titles of the proposed orders are also described in the said Schedule.

No more than 3 permits will be issued per property (one of which being a Visitor Permit) and the cost of such permits will be in accordance with the County Council of the City and County of Cardiff (On Street Parking Places) (Charges) Order 1999 which are for the time being:-

Permit Application per Address per Financial Year	Fee Charged per permit issued
1st 2nd Visitor	£5 £30 £5

Exemptions will be permitted for the following reasons:-

(a) boarding and alighting from a vehicle;
(b) loading and unloading of goods;
(c) essential services and funerals;
(d) for a maximum period of three hours for vehicles when displaying a "Disabled Badge" and being used for the conveyance of disabled persons.

Full details of the proposals and plans showing the location and extent of the proposed restrictions may be seen at the address shown below during normal office hours and any objection you may have to any of the proposals must be submitted to me in writing (or email Jackie.Yeung2@cardiff.gov.uk) on or before the 3rd February 2014 must contain the grounds on which you object.

SCHEDULE
